At Bourn p. 89. l. 4. for Sir Anthony Aucher Knight and Baronet r. Sir Anthony Aucher Knight. At Boxley p. 89. After my Description of Boxley Abby and Mannor, Newenham Court is omitted, which by inadvertency was mistook for Newenham Parish. p. 244. and p. 245. and there described which should be placed here, there being no other Mannors in Newenham but Champions Court, sometimes likewise called Newenham Court, and Sholands, therefore place it here, and take of it this more ample Account. Newenham Court is likewise another Mannor in Boxley which in the twentieth of William the Conquerour (as appears by the Record of Doomsday Book) was wrapped up in the Revenue of Odo Bishop of Baieux and Earl of Kent, and it is possible was one of his ordinary Mansions or Pallaces, but after his Decease it returned to the Crown, and it is probable being esteemed a Limbe of Boxley, was involved in that exchange which was made by K. Stephen of other Lands with Will. de Ippe for his Mannor of Feversham, and it is possible was settled by this Will. de Ippe when he erected the Abby of Boxley, (though it be not mentioned in the original Charter) upon that Convent, and became part of their endowment, and remained united to the patrimony of this Cloister, untill the Suppression of Henry the eighth, and then it was granted about the thirty second year of that Princes Government, to Sir Thomas Wiat, and his Son by his unhappy Defection in the Time of Queen Mary, forfeited it to the Crown, where it remained till Queen Elizabeth by royal Concession, invested the possession in her faithful Servant Jo. Astley Esquire, Master or Conservator of her Jewels, whose Son Sir Jo. Astley alienated it to his Nephew Sir Norton Knatchbull Knight and Baronet, who is the instant proprietary of it. At Vinters in Boxley p. 90. l. 18. for Sir John Tufton r. Sir William Tufton. And at Boughton Malherbe the same p. l. 49. add this — whose Right in this and Colbridge is now transferred to her eldest Daughter the Lady Katharine Sanhope. At Chilston p. 9. l. 14. for Oliver Northwood r. Alexander Northwood. At Burham p. l. 29. for Mr. Edward Maplesden r. Mr. John Maplesden. At Dodingdale. p. 9l. 42. add — to discover. At Coursehourne in Cranebroke. p. 99. l. 18. Gervas Henley Esquire r. Thomas Henley Esquire. At Enbroke in Cheriton p. 112. l. 15. Jo. Honywood r. Edward Honywood and then add this — There is another Mannor in Cheriton called Enbroke likewise which was an Appendage to the demesne of the Arch-bishop of Canterbury; but how it devolved to that See, I confess I know not; onely I find it was assumed by the Crown in the first year of Q. Elizabeth, who about the latter end of her Reign granted it to Sir Edwin Sandys, whose Son Henry Sandys Esquire passed it away in Lease to John Marsham Esquire who transmitted that part of it which lay in Cheriton to Col. Richard Sandys lately deceased, who purchased the Reversion in Fee of the rest of his Brothers, and that part of it which lay in Waldershare, of which he had bought the propriety to Sir Thomas Pettus of Suffolk Baronet. At Cobhambury in Cobham p. 121. l. 30. for Robert Cecill Earl of Salisbury r. William Cecill Earl of Salisbury. At Lambert Lands in Cosmus

At Marden p. 232. the Mannor of Whitherst or Wogherst is omitted, which should be placed after Monkton in that page, of which take this Account. Whitherst, written in old Records Wogherst, was as high as Times which extend themselves to the Reign of K. John and Henry the third, the patrimony of a Family of no cheap Accompt in Kent, whose Sirname was Corbie, whose ancient Seat was at a place in Eltham, now shrunk into obscurity, called Corbies-Castle, and continued annexed to their Demeasn, until it came to be possess by Robert Corbie, and he determining in Joan his Sole Inheritrix, matched to Sir Nicholas Wotton, Lord Maior of London, made it his Demeasne, and from him it was by paternal Descent, transported to Thomas Lord Wotton, who settled it on Katharine his eldest Daughter, married to Henry Lord Stanhope. At Northwood in Miltom, p. 238. l. 27. for Robert Northwood, r. Richard Northwood, and then l. 28. for Sir John Tufton, r. At East-Peckham p. 267. l. 41, 42, and 43. for — and in this Family (though not without some struglings and Contests at Law about the Title) does the propriety of this Mannor at this instant reside, r. and in this Family (though not without some struglings and Contests at Law about the Title) did the Title reside untill that Age we style ours, and then it was conveyed to George Wheten=hall Esquire, who dying without Issue it came by Descent to own for proprietary Tho. Whetenhall now of Great Peckham Esq; but the Mannor of East-Peckham it self rested in the Crown until the State upon the death of the late K. Charls granted it to Col. Rob. Gibbons. At Westwood in Preston juxta Feversham p. 273. l. 4. for thirty three r. thirty six. At Sa= pington in Petham p. 274. l. 48. and 49. for — who about the latter end of Philip and Mary alienated it to Langford, r. who about the latter end of Philip and Mary alie= nated it to Strensham, from which Family about the fortieth of Q. Elizabeth the Mu= tation of purchase brought it to Apleford, and he not long after convey<e>d it to Lang= ford. At Postling p. 275. l. 32, 33, 34, 3, 36, 37. for — But the Tenure of it in this Family was brief and transitory, for about the Beginning of Q. Elizabeth, it went away from this Name to Robert Cranmer Esquire, Nephew to Thomas Cranmer Arch-bishop of Canterbury, who expiring in a Female Heir, she brought it along with her to Sir Arthur Harris of Crixey in Essex, from whom it devolved to his Son and Heir Sir Cranmer Harris who holds the instant possession of it. r. But the Tenure of it in this Family was brief and transitory, for about the Beginning of Q. Eliz. it went away from this Name to Thomas Smith Esquire, Customer to that Princesse, from whom the Clew of paternal Succession, hath transmitted the propriety to the right Honorable Philip Viscount Strangford his great Grandchild. At Silham in Reynham p. 280. l. 13. (was conveyed is omitted. At Saltwood p. 299. l. 3, 4, 5, 6, 7. for — and his Son K. Edward the sixth, in the fourth year of his Reign, granted it away to Edward Lord Clinton, who not long after conveyed it to Mr. Henry Herdson, whose Grand-child Mr. Francis Herdson, passed it away about the latter end of Q. Eliz. to Robert Cranmer Esquire, r. and his Son

K. Edw. the sixth granted it to John Earl of Warwick, and Joan his Wife in the first year of his Reign, but suddenly afterwards it seems it was either reassumed or exchanged with the Crown, for the same Prince in the fourth year of his Reign, granted it to Edw. Lord Clinton, and by a more ample Concession confirmed this Mannor and the Bayli= wick of Hithe to him in the seventh year of his Reign, and he not long after conveyed Saltwood to Mr. Thomas Broadnex, whose Family was of good Repute and anciently pos= sest of a spreading Revenue about Burmersh and St. Maries in Romney Mersh, and he being transplanted to Godmersham passed this Mannor away to Knatchbull, who in the eighteenth year of Q. Elizabeth, alienated it to Crispe, and he again invested it by Sale in Knatchbull, for Mr. Reginald Knatchbull, in the thirty first of Q. Eliz. sold it to Will. Gibbons, from whom the same Fate in the thirty third year of that Queen carried it off to Mr. Norton Knatchbull, and he in the thirty seventh of her Rule disposed of his Inte= rest in it by Sale to Robert Cranmer Esquire. At Snavewick in Snaves p. 306. l. 45. and 46. for who not long after granted it in Lease to Sir Edward Yates of Barkeshire r. though it was by the Crown granted in Lease long before to Yates of Barkeshire. At Seale p. 309. l. 52. for Richard Smith r. Henry Smith, and then l. 54. for to St. Thomas Hospital in South= wark. r. to St. Thomas Hospital in Southwark and eleven Parishes, beside all circum= scribed within the Verge of Surrey. Courteous Reader,

Knowing how many Accidents attend upon humane Frailty, that by an unexpect Invasion may snatch us from the Portions of Life, and thrust us into a hasty Sepulcher: I have been now more carefully studious to insert those things into my Table of Omissions, which for want of due Informations have been left out, and rectifie those Mistakes which by the inadvertency of the Press, or Pen have crept in, that if ever this Survey should receive a second Impression, they might neither disorder this Book, nor injure my Memory.

<Some version of this 'Second table' of corrections and additions has been inserted into most copies of Philipott's book. Tony Burgess (www.oldkentmaps.co.uk) reports that there exist four versions of it, comprising respectively two, four, six and eight pages, and that some copies which contain the eight-page version contain also another two pages, 'Additional supply of things to be inserted'. None of these inserts are dated. I assume that they were printed off from time to time, at Philipott's expense, and made available to people who were buying a copy of the book, or who were known to have bought a copy in the past. This file is a transcript of the four-page version. I do not propose to go looking for the other versions, but will deal with them if they happen to cross my path. – C.F.
