ROCHESTER,
WITH STROOD, FRINDSBURY, AND UPNOR.

ROCHESTER is a city and parliamentary borough, consisting of the parishes of St. Nicholas, St. Margaret and the Cathedral Church Precinct, on the south bank of the navigable river Medway and of the parish of Strood and parts of the parishes of Chatham and Frindsbury on the north bank and is the head of a Bishop's see, and of a petty sessional division, in the Mid division of the county, lathe of Aylesford and Medway union, while Strood and Frindsbury form a part of the Strood union. Rochester is also the seat of a customs port of entry and the head quarters of an inland revenue district, and is 29 miles from London, 8 north from Maidstone, 7 south-east from Gravesend, 27 north-west from Canterbury and 42 in the same direction from Dover, on the high road to which it stands; there is a station on the North Kent line at Strood, where, in 1890, an iron bridge was finished, crossing the Medway, with a view of extending the line to Chatham, and a station will be erected here. The London, Chatham and Dover railway has a station at Rochester bridge, in Strood, and crosses the river by a girder bridge. The city, which is built on a somewhat irregular plan, and extends for a considerable distance along the bank of the Medway, is connected with Strood by a handsome and substantial iron bridge of three arches, erected in 1857 and 1858, from designs by Sir William Cubitt, at a cost of £200,000, defrayed partly by accumulated funds arising from the bridge estates, the remainder having been borrowed on mortgage; the bridge has a centre arch of 178 feet, and two side arches of 140 feet each: the river Medway is under the jurisdiction of a Conservancy Board, to whom in March, 1882, the Corporation surrendered all their ancient privileges and superintendence over the river Medway for a sum of £65,000.

The first charter of incorporation was granted by Henry II. A.D. 1165: the municipal body now comprises a mayor, recorder, 6 aldermen and 18 councillors, who also act as the Urban Sanitary Authority; quarter sessions are held here, and there is also a commission of the peace for the city, which is well lighted with gas and supplied with water from works at Luton, belonging to the Brompton, Chatham and Gillingham and Rochester Waterworks Company.

The parliamentary borough returned two members from Edward I. until the passing of the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885," which reduced the number to one. The limits are co-extensive with the municipal borough and comprise Rochester and parts of Strood and Frindsbury.

The limits of the port of Rochester were declared October 31st, 1882, to extend from the north-eastern extremity of the Isle of Grain in Kent, easterly across the entrance to the Medway and along the coast of the Isle of Sheppy, to the Land's End in the parish of Warden (being the boundary of the port of Faversham), and to extend seawards from the coast within the said limits three miles from low water mark, including the River Medway, and also the water called the "West Swale," as far as an imaginary line drawn from Elmley Chapel, in the Isle of Sheppy, to Swale Church, on the mainland, the said line being the boundary of the port of Faversham, and including further all islands, creeks, harbours and places within the said limits.

Rochester was called by the Britons Dourbryf, signifying "a swift stream," in allusion to the rapidity of the Medway. The Romans called it Durobrovis and Durobrovum: by the Saxons it was denominated Hroffeceaster, from the name of one Hroffe or Roffe, who erected some buildings here and from the Roman castrum, implying that the Romans had a fortified port here. Ethelbert the Britwald and King of Kent founded a Bishop's see here in 604, when Justus, who was sent from Rome A.D. 601, to assist St. Augustine in the conversion of the Anglo-Saxons to Christianity, was appointed the first bishop. In 676 the city was destroyed by Ethelred, King of Mercia, and again by the Danes in 839: being rebuilt, it was besieged by these marauders in 885, but relieved by King Alfred: in 986 it was attacked a second time by King Ethelred: in 998 sacked by the Danes, and in 1088, William Rufus, after a six weeks' siege, took the castle.

Rochester was nearly destroyed by fire in 1130 and 1137, and in 1174 the city and part of the cathedral were burned. In 1215 the castle was taken by King John, after a siege of twelve months; in 1216 it surrendered to the Dauphin Louis of France and in 1217 was retaken. Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester, the founder of our Parliamentary liberties, made an attempt upon the castle in 1264, and failing to capture it, held possession of the city and despoiled the church; Wat Tyler, in his insurrection of 1381, also attacked the castle, and here too Jack Cade's rabble rout dispersed themselves. Queen Elizabeth visited this city in 1573; Charles II. slept here on his landing at the Restoration, and the Dutch in Charles II.'s time sailed up the Medway and burnt several vessels, and in 1688 King James II. on his abdication, secretly embarked at Rochester in his flight to the Continent.

The Cathedral of St. Andrew, Rochester, was begun by Bishop Gundulph, 1077-1108, but is of various ages, and consists of choir, with transepts and chapels, nave, aisles, transepts with transeptal chapels on the eastern side and a central tower; adjoining the north end of the great transept on the east are the remains of Gundulph's tower, a massive building 24 feet square, with walls six feet in thickness, probably once forming a transept tower, as at Exeter: and at the west end are two small towers. Ernulph, the architect of great works, while Abbot of Peterborough and Prior of Canterbury, completed the church, built the dormitory, infirmary and chapter house and lengthened the nave by two bays eastward, 1115-25: the narrow Early English choir, of which William de Hoo, when sacrist, is the reputed builder, was first used May 9th, 1227, and is raised considerably above the nave, and approached by a flight of steps to an arched entrance in the wall, closed by gates, separating the choir from the nave; each side of the choir has four compartments with lancet arches, and the roof is groined, springing from clustered shafts of dark marble: the choir was restored by the late Sir Gilbert Scott R.A. in 1874-5 when much of the original woodwork of the 13th century, with other portions added in the 16th century, as well as some 14th century wall-painting above the stalls, was carefully preserved and the floor richly paved: the walls are adorned with the fleur-de-lis and lion, and the arms of successive bishops from Gundulph: on the south side are three Decorated sedilia, restored in 1825, which mark the ancient site of the high altar, before the Lady Chapel was thrown into the choir in the 15th century: the choir transepts were added by William de Hoo, with the offerings made at St. William's shrine and the north transept is a chapel dedicated to that saint (canonized in 1256); the south transept is roofed with oak, part dating from the time of Edward I.: the crypt, which once contained nine altars, is mostly Early English and was completed by William de Hoo in 1227, and extends under the whole length of the choir: the tower rises from the intersection of the western or great transept with the nave and choir and as originally built in 1352, by Bishop Shepey and Hamo de Hethe, consisted of a low tower with a short and inelegant though venerable spire, added in 1479: the modern debased and incongruous structure was erected by Mr. Cottingham in 1827 and rests on arches, springing from fine clustered banded shafts, and is square, embattled with tall pinnacles; the north wing of the main transept, Early English, was built by the monk, Richard de Eastgate, sacrist and Thomas de Meopham: and the south wing by the monk Richard de Waldene, about the year 1200: on the western side of the south wing is St. Mary's chapel of three bays, and on the eastern side the muniment room.

The stone screen between the nave and choir is now (1890) being adorned with canopied niches to contain figures of bishops, as a memorial of the late dean Robert Scott D.D.; this screen supports the organ, which is in two parts, and serves for the divine services held both in the nave and choir.

The nave is the most ancient of any in the kingdom and is Norman (except the two easternmost arches on each side, rebuilt probably with the intention of its complete reconstruction and the windows which are almost all of Decorated or Perpendicular date); the arcades, therefore, consist of six Norman and two Early English arches, two of the Norman piers being octagonal and others having attached shafts; above is a rich triforium of semi-circular arches, opening into the aisles, but extending along the six Norman bays only and above this rises a lofty clerestory, with windows of late Perpendicular date: the modern oak roof is flat, supported on corbels: the north aisle was begun by Richard de Eastgate and completed by William Axenham in the 13th century; the south aisle was built in 1240. The West front is a very noble specimen of Norman work, and its doorway, although much worn, is altogether unrivalled as an example of that style; it consists of a deeply recessed semi-circular arch, enriched with beautiful mouldings of four orders, on shafts with highly elaborated capitals; on two opposite shafts are figures, now mutilated, of Henry I. and Queen Maud and the lintel bears reliefs of Our Lord and the Apostles, with figures of cherubim and evangelistic symbols: of the four arcaded octagonal turrets which once adorned the building, only one retains its original pinnacle; the whole façade has several ranges of arches, some semi-circular and some intersecting.

The west ends of the aisles have enriched Norman windows, but the rest of the exterior of the nave is plain: the large Perpendicular west window of eight lights is of the date of Henry VII.; this and the Norman windows were filled with stained glass in 1885 as memorials to the Royal Engineers who fell in Afghanistan and South Africa, as recorded on each side of the doorway; the east window, replaced in its original form in 1874, is richly stained; and at the south end of the great transept memorial windows were unveiled Aug. 9, 1888, to General Gordon, hero of Khartoum, and the officers and men of the Royal Engineers who were killed, or died from their wounds or disease, in the Egyptian and Soudan Campaigns of 1881 to 1885, and to those officers who served and were killed in the Peninsula and at Waterloo: at the north end of this transept are other stained windows.

The principal monuments in the cathedral are as follows: North-east transept -- Bishop Walter de Merton, drowned in 1278, a fine tomb dating from the transitional period between Early English and Decorated, with pyramidal canopies, restored by Hussey in 1849: Bishop John Lowe ob. 1467, an altar-tomb; here also was the shrine of St. William of Rochester, a baker of Perth, murdered outside the walls of Rochester, when on a pilgrimage to Jerusalem, in 1201, by a servant of Prior Silvester and canonized in 1256: north side of choir -- Bishop John de Shepey, ob. 1361, an effigy with original colouring, discovered in 1825, and modern canopy: Presbytery, north side -- Bishop Gundulph, ob. 1107, a simple stone cist; and Bishop Thomas Ingletorpe, ob. 1291, with a canopied effigy of Petworth marble: south side -- Bishop Laurence de St. Martin, ob. 1274, with a perfect effigy, beneath an Early Decorated canopy; and Bishop Gilbert de Glanvill, ob. 1214, a coped tomb of Petworth marble, much mutilated: south choir aisle -- Bishop John de Bradfield, ob. 1283, a mutilated tomb, with canopy and effigy: north-east transept aisle -- Bishop Hamo de Hethe, ob. 1352, with a rich canopy of Decorated work: nave -- tomb of John, 1st Baron Henniker, d. April 18th, 1803; and an incised slab to Bishop John Fisher, ob. 1535; there is also a monument to Richard Watts, ob. 1579, the founder of the charity bearing his name; a brass tablet to the celebrated novelist, Charles Dickens, whose boyhood was passed in Rochester and who died at Gad's Hill place, near the city, June 9, 1870, and a marble portrait medallion of Joseph Maas, the singer, d. 1886, formerly a chorister here.

The total length of the cathedral is 310 ft. the nave being 159 ft. long by 65 ft. 4 in. broad and 55 ft. high, and the choir 110 ft. 6 in. long, or, with the lady chapel, about 164 ft.; the main transept extends for 122 ft. 3 in. the choir transept for 92 ft. and the west front has an extreme breadth of 94 ft.; the central tower is 156 ft. high and Gundulph's tower 95 ft.; at the south-east corner are some Norman remains of the ancient chapter house and cloisters; the former, partly erected by Bishop Hamo de Hethe and now rebuilt, has a very beautiful west front, elaborately carved with the zodiacal signs: the doorway, attributed to Bishop Shepey, 1352, is a rich work, set between two highly-sculptured arches and represents the Church as a prelate and the Jewish Synagogue as a woman blindfold, with other figures, apparently of ecclesiastics, accompanied by symbolical designs: the cloister occupies a unique position on the south-east side of the choir, an arrangement which occurs in no other cathedral: to its southern wall was attached the refectory, built by Silvester, the prior, after 1177 and there still exist remains of a passage through the wall to the pulpit, as at Chester Cathedral and Beaulieu Abbey, Hants. A sum of £14,000 was spent between 1827 and 1834 in restorations; in 1840 the whole interior of the cathedral was renovated and in 1870 a further scheme of restoration was partially carried out, and at present (1890) restorations are in progress, but £20,000 is still required for its completion. The library of upwards of 1,100 volumes, contains some ancient MSS. and among others, the celebrated register of the diocese, the "Textus Roffensis," A.D. 1120 and the "Custumale Roffense," composed about 1320.

The establishment of the cathedral consists of a dean, four canons, three minor canons, six lay clerks and twelve choristers, with a Grammar school attached, having on the Foundation a master and twenty scholars. The gross income of the Dean and Chapter has been returned at £7,178 yearly and the net income at £5,106. The bishop's see comprises the archdeaconry of Rochester in this county and the archdeaconries of Kingston and Southwark in Surrey. Three gates of the Priory remain: -- the Prior's, an embattled tower on the south-east; the Deanery or Sacristy, adjoining the north transept; and the College Yard or Cemetery Gate, which led from the Market cross to the west door. Of the three precinct gates, the north or St. William's, is destroyed, but the embattled arch of the south cloister still exists; the almonry, on the south-west, has been converted into a prebendal house.

Rochester had formerly four parish churches, but the site of St. Mary's is unknown.

The church of St. Margaret is a building of stone, now chiefly in the Italian style, having been wholly rebuilt, with the exception of the tower, at the beginning of the present century; it consists of nave and two chancels, with capacious galleries on the north, west and south, north porch and a plain embattled western tower, of Perpendicular date, with a turret and containing 6 bells; the tower forms a striking feature in the landscape, overlooking the meadows which slope down to the river Medway: in the church is the brass, with an effigy in ecclesiastical vestments, of a former vicar, who lived about the year A.D. 1450; the brass is a palimpsest, the other side exhibiting a similar figure, in a somewhat different dress. In 1872 the church was restored and repewed and a stained east window inserted: there are 900 sittings, 450 being free. The churchyard, picturesquely situated, is now closed for burials, the parish having, in 1865, provided a cemetery on the Maidstone road. The church of St. Matthew, Borstal, serves as a chapel-of-ease for this parish. The register dates from the year 1569. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £340, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter, and held since 1884 by the Rev. William Henry Nutter M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge.

The church of St. Nicholas, close to the cathedral, is a plain building, chiefly of flints, in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, erected in 1421 and greatly enlarged in 1624, and consists of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, west porch and a small low western tower, of Perpendicular date, containing 2 bells: the arcades of the nave consist of five Pointed arches on either side, springing from circular piers, with square capitals: there are several brasses and tablets to the Foord and Gordon families, and a curious octagonal stone font with the word "Cristian," round it in ancient capitals. The church possesses some very valuable communion plate, the gift of former citizens: there are sittings for 900, about 320 being free. The register dates from the year 1624. The living is a vicarage, with that of St. Clement annexed, average tithe rent-charge £73, net income £238, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Rochester, and held since 1873 by the Rev. William Savery Hill M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge.

St. Clement's church has been demolished and the parish is united to that of St. Nicholas.

St. Peter's is an ecclesiastical parish, formed August 28th, 1860, out of St. Margaret's; the church, erected in 1859, at a cost of £6,000, is a building of stone and brick, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, south aisle, south porch and a short western saddle-back tower, containing a clock and one bell: the east and west windows are memorials to members of the Nicholson family: there are 800 sittings, 561 being free. The register dates from the year 1860. The living is a vicarage, yearly value from tithe rent-charge £300, net income £272, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Rochester, and held since 1885 by the Rev. Herbert Witherby M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The population in 1881 was 4,626.

The Meeting House for the Society of Friends, in Pump lane, erected in 1814, has 150 sittings.

The Jews' Synagogue, in High street, erected by Simon Magnus, a merchant of Chatham, to the memory of his son, will seat 300.

The Wesleyan chapel, in High street, erected in 1810, has sittings for 600. The Congregational chapel, The Vines, erected in 1853, will seat 500 persons. Bartholomew Free church, in Cross street, erected in 1878, has 450 sittings. The Free Methodist chapel, on Star hill, erected in 1856, will seat 500.

The Baptist chapel, in Maidstone road, is now (1890) in course of erection; services are at present held in a private house adjoining.

St. Margaret's Cemetery, situated on the Maidstone road, is six acres in extent; it has two mortuary chapels, and is under the control of a burial board of 9 members.

St. Nicholas' Cemetery, situated on the Maidstone road, has an area of four acres, with mortuary chapels, and is also under the control of a burial board of 9 members.

The Guildhall, erected in 1687, is an edifice of red brick, supported on columns forming an open basement, and a gilt ship serves as a vane: it contains some portraits of considerable merit, including William III. and Queen Anne and Admiral Sir Cloudesley Shovel, who represented the city in Parliament. The Corn Exchange was rebuilt in 1870-1.

Markets are held every Tuesday for corn and cattle. A fair is held at Rochester on the 18th May and at Strood on the 26th, 27th and 28th of August. Much trade is carried on by means of the Medway, and vessels of considerable tonnage come up the river; and there is a custom house.

The Lock-up is used for the purposes of local jurisdiction. Convicted prisoners are taken to Maidstone prison.

The County Court Offices, in Eastgate, erected in 1862, form a building of red brick, in a modified Tudor style.

City of Rochester Liberal Club, Castle hill, erected in 1889, is a brick building, with Bath stone facings, and cost £6,200; it has a spacious hall capable of seating 650 persons; there is also a large billiard room with 3 tables, also secretary's rooms &c.; secretary, George Hayter.

The Conservative Club, on Star hill, built on the site of the Old Theatre by a Limited Liability Company, at a cost of £3,000, was opened on December 10th, 1884: it is a large building containing billiard, smoking, reading, card, chess and coffee rooms and various offices, together with a large hall capable of seating 400 persons.

The Rochester and County Club is at Castle Moat; the Liberal Club in the High street; the Castle Club near Rochester bridge; and the Young Men's Christian Institute at Eastgate house.

The Working Men's Institute, Borstal, built in 1880 by Samuel Barker Booth esq. contains reading and other rooms.

Fort Pitt, on an elevated site overlooking the Medway, was erected in the early part of this century, and is now used as a military hospital, the original building having been considerably enlarged.

The Recreation ground near Fort Pitt and Chatham railway station affords extensive views of the city and river.

The Poor Travellers' House was founded and endowed in 1579 by Richard Watts, for six poor travellers, "not being common rogues nor proctors;" each traveller receives a night's lodging, a supper and fourpence on leaving in the morning: the revenues, which at the time of the donor's death were small, have so increased as to amount at the present time to £3,500 yearly; in July, 1883, a scheme was sanctioned by the Court of Chancery for building almshouses for ten men and ten women, fourteen of whom were to receive £30 a year each, a head nurse £60 a year, a porter £50 and four nurses £50 a year each; suitable buildings were accordingly erected in the Maidstone road, at a cost of nearly £10,000, in the Tudor style, with two fine gateways, each costing £350, from designs by Mr. Webb, of London; the scheme likewise empowered the trustees to give a sum of £4,000 towards the erection of a general hospital (since built), for the benefit of the city and neighbourhood and a sum of £1,000 yearly towards its support.

The House of Industry, founded by Sir J. Hayward, of Rochester, in the year 1823, will hold six poor women.

St. Catherine's Hospital, Eastgate, originally founded by Symond Potyn, of Rochester, in 1316, for lepers, is now appropriated as the residence of twenty-two aged females, each with a pension of £28 yearly.

Hawkins' charity, founded by Sir John Hawkins, in 1592, and situated in Chatham Intra, is for decayed seamen: the inmates are appointed by the dock authorities; deputy-governor, George Henry Knight.

Other charities, producing £150 yearly, are distributed in bread.

Rochester Castle, situated near the bridge, and built by Gundulph, is an ancient Norman edifice, with very thick walls of Kentish ragstone, but little remains except the magnificent keep, one of the finest castellated ruins in the kingdom, and consisting of a massive tower, 70 feet square and 104 feet high, with flat buttresses and a turret at each angle, three of these being square and the fourth circular: the interior is divided into two equal parts by an open arcaded wall indicating that the rooms were of varying height, from 20 to 32 feet, but there is no flooring left; the second storey seems to have contained the state apartments and exhibits semi-circular arches and pillars of excellent workmanship; in the centre of the keep is a curious well, accessible from every floor; the interior of the keep can be viewed, and means have been taken for its preservation; a quantity of pigeons have made the keep their home: the outer walls of the Castle are still to some extent perfect, and the entrances show great ingenuity in the several contrivances adopted for their security: the Castle, with its grounds, was purchased in 1883 by the Corporation from the Earl of Jersey, at a cost of from £6,000 to £7,000, and the grounds subsequently laid out for public recreation at a cost of £2,000, and a band stand erected. From the summit of the keep extensive views of the neighbouring country are obtained, and along the bank of the river Medway here is an esplanade, and a pier has been constructed.

The area of St. Margaret's parish is 2,492; rateable value, £38,308; population in 1881, 10,200, including 221 in Fort Pitt Barrack Hospital, 637 in Borstal Convict Prison and 58 in St. Bartholomew's Hospital: St. Nicholas, 121 acres; rateable value, £19,707; population in 1881, 3,565; Cathedral precincts, area 7 acres; rateable value, £855; population in 1881, 125.

The population of the Municipal and Parliamentary borough and of the Rochester and Strood Urban Sanitary district in 1881 was: --

Cathedral Precinct	125
Chatham (part of)	364
Frindbury (part of)	1,672
St. Margaret (part of)	10,186

Schools.

The Cathedral Grammar School was founded by King Henry VIII. A.D. 1544. The foundation scholars, who receive free education, are selected, after an examination, by the Dean & Chapter of Rochester, any boy between the ages of nine & fifteen being eligible: there are also four exhibitions, of the yearly value of £40, to be raised to £60 hereafter, paid by the Dean & Chapter & tenable at the Universities or any place of higher education; & two Gunsley Exhibitions at University College, Oxford, of the yearly value of £25, the electors being the Master & Fellows of the college & each exhibitioner is allowed £15 a year from the date of his election to the commencement of his residence at Oxford: annual prizes are also given to those pupils who distinguish themselves most in classics, mathematics & French; Governors: The Dean & Chapter; Rev. John Langhorne M.A. Christ's College, Cambridge, head master

The Mathematical School was founded by Sir Joseph Williamson in 1704, in the reign of Queen Anne, its original object being the teaching of mathematics, navigation & other matters appertaining to the sea, but under the provisions of a new scheme, issued in 1878, it is now organized as a school for general education, & is available for 300 boys, including from 25 to 30 foundation scholars, with a gross endowment of about £1,400 a year. The school is managed by a body of 18 governors, of whom 4 are ex-officio, 4 co-optative & 10 representative; chairman, the Mayor of Rochester; A. A. Arnold esq. clerk; Charles Bird esq. B.A.Lond., F.G.S. head master; Paul Mathews M.A. Cuthbert Stanton B.A. Richard Ternouth, John Thompson, Jean J. Johnson B.A. assistant masters & George Ward, art master

Rochester Grammar School for Girls, Maidstone road, was founded 3 April, 1888, under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners, out of an Educational grant of £10,000, made by the Wardens & Commonalty of Rochester Bridge, £6,000 of which is for the building & general endowment of the school, the remaining £4,000 being assigned to the Mathematical school; the buildings, which are entirely new, comprise six class rooms, a large assembly hall, dining room, lecture, music & art rooms, library, cloak room, kitchen &c. & there is a good playground. Foundation scholarships, in the form of total or partial exemption from fees, are awarded in the proportion of not more than one for every 10 girls in the school; the school is managed by a body of 18 governors, of whom 4 are ex-officio, 4 co-optative & 10 representative, being the present governors of the Mathematical school, Miss Easton, head mistress Choristers' School, Cathedral precincts, erected in 1889, for 18 boys; Mr. Percy Talbot, master

A School Board of 9 members was formed in 1871, Richard Prall, 88 High street, clerk; Edward Fuller, attendance officer, King street, Rochester

Board School, Troy town, erected in 1873, for 204 boys & as many girls & infants, with a full attendance in each department; William Henry Marsh, master; George Hayter, assistant master; Miss Lucie Weaver, mistress; Miss Annie Bearn, infants' mistress

St. Margaret's National & Barnard's Charity, built for 450 children; average attendance, 120 boys, 93 girls & 140 infants; Oswald Stephen Norman, master; Miss Jane Annie Bishop, girls' mistress; Miss Hannah Avis, infants' mistress

St. Nicholas' National, Free School lane, established in 1857, for 124 boys, 150 girls & 124 infants; average attendance, 137 boys, 139 girls & 116 infants; Robert C. Miller, master; Miss Jane Brown, mistress; Miss Margaret Pedder, infants' mistress
